

Portfolio Reflection #13 - Skiing Field Trip

I believe that going on field trips is a very good way to have student both be active and learn a little bit, whether it's about the environment or about skills. Plus, you get to hang out and talk with your friends. Also, you get to experience new things that you will most likely remember for a while in the future. For example, Richie, a kid in my class, went skiing for the first time this year because of these field trips. SKiing is a very fun sport, and, considering that we live right next to a ski resort, I kind of take it for granted. Some kids who aren't as fortunate as I am and maybe don't have enough money to go skiing, because of these field trips, they will get the chance to try skiing for possibly the only time in their childhood. As you can see, these field trips are very fun and very important.
